Gambier, O., Nov. 13.—James E. Mc-Gavrey, the Bexley Theological seminary student who was found bound and gagged in his room Saturday night, is in a precarious condition and fears are entertained that he may not recover. He suffered several convulsions today, and physicians say he is on the verge of complete nervous collapse. He suffers great pain in his right side and it is believed he was kicked while unconscious by the men who bound and gagged him.

Early this fall McGavrey underwent an operation for appendicitis and he had not fully recovered from this when he was attacked Saturday.

McGavrey's mind is not yet clear and he is unable to tell anything of the assault which will give a clue to the police at work on the case.

Not only to the police, but to the college authorities as well, is the assault a mystery. Dean Jones of Bexley hall said tonight that it is a well known fact that students in the seminary are poor, a majority of them working their way through college. His statement strengthens the belief that robbery was not the motive for the assault on McGavrey.
